5. INSTRUCTIONS

The following instructions apply to the activities of support PAO for a Space Shuttle launch at the Kennedy Space Center to support a Space Shuttle Launch:

- 5.1 Prior to departure for a Space Shuttle launch the support PAO should do the following:
  - 5.1.1 The supporting PAO should consult with Shuttle PAO for information relevant to the Marshall managed propulsion hardware for the launch; the Microgravity/International Space Station PAO for information regarding any Marshall managed experiments on the flight; and the news chief for information regarding general support of the launch.
  - 5.1.2 The Space Shuttle PAO will prepare a launch support package for each Space Shuttle launch. Suggested contents are listed at Appendix A.
- 5.2 While at the Kennedy Space Center prior to launch day, the support PAO should do the following:
  - 5.2.1 At KSC, supporting PAO will make contact with Marshall resident office at KSC to establish a line of communication with Marshall managers supporting the launch at KSC to discuss issues that arise during pre-launch activities.
  - 5.2.2 Support PAO should attend the L-2/L-1 briefings at KSC to acquire latest information about and the status of Marshall-managed hardware and experiments involved in the launch.
  - 5.2.3 Support PAO will work at the KSC press site for a normal tour of duty on L-2 and L-1 days, unless extended hours are warranted because of a Marshall hardware anomaly. If an anomaly occurs, refer to Appendix B and CD70 OWI-4.0.

5.2.4 The support PAO will establish contact and work closely with the KSC news chief, HQ Code M PAO, JSC PAO, and other public affairs representatives to answer questions from the media regarding the launch. Specifically questions involving the performance of Marshall-managed projects will be handled through the Marshall support PAO.

5.3 While at the Kennedy Space Center on launch day, the support PAO should do the following:

5.3.1 PAO will be at the KSC press site at least 4 hours prior to launch on launch day.

5.3.2 Approximately 2 hours prior to launch the support PAO should make contact with the Marshall project managers on console at KSC.

5.4 In the event of Marshall-managed equipment/hardware failure or anomaly, the on-site PAO will:

5.4.1 Contact the appropriate Marshall project manager(s) at KSC based on the specific contingency to determine what information is known and can be provided to media. Prior to public release through the media, this information should be coordinated on site with the KSC, JSC, and HQ Code M PAOs.

5.4.2 Contact the Marshall Media Relations Department manager and/or deputy manager with information that is available and the course of action to be taken.

5.4.3 Provide a spokesperson (Marshall project manager or senior engineer) to present the information at the press conference following the delay/anomaly, if required by Code M PAO and/or the Space Shuttle Program Manager.

3.0 RESPONSIBILITIES

- a. The MSFC Manager of Media Relations Department will establish contact with the Center Director and the Director, Customer and Employee Relations Directorate, and advise them on appropriate dissemination of information, to include photographs and videotape.
- b. The Manager, Media Relations Department, will establish and manage a newsroom operation in Building 4200, establish appropriate operating hours, and provide appropriate staffing. Temporary supplemental personnel from within CaER and MSFC likely will be required to adequately staff this operation.
- c. The MSFC Space Shuttle Projects media relations' specialist will be the focal point for gathering, coordinating and releasing information.
- d. Other MSFC media relations specialists will support the contingency news operation and Space Shuttle Projects media relations specialist as required.

4.0 NEWS OPERATIONS

The Manager, Media Relations Department, will:

- a. Provide working facilities for the news media, provide access to releasable information, and facilitate access to and interviews with MSFC personnel.
- b. Arrange media clearance to the MSFC newsroom through the Redstone Arsenal Military Police and MSFC Security Office.
- c. Arrange after-hours media access to the MSFC newsroom through the MSFC Security Office.
- d. Arrange through the MSFC Security Office for additional security (crowd control) as required at media sites of interest such as the Huntsville Operations Support Center, the Redstone Army Airfield, and Building 4200 complex.
- e. Arrange through the Transportation Office for additional government vehicles to be assigned to the Media Relations Department (sedans, vans, buses) as required.

- f. Arrange with MSFC Center Operations Directorate to support short notice briefings, press conferences, live shots, and interviews and to document MSFC contingency activities.
- g. Ensure that all MSFC media activities are appropriately coordinated with MSFC management and with Public Affairs at JSC and NASA Headquarters.

5.0 PROCEDURES

- a. In the event of a contingency, standard (no escort required) media badges will continue to be issued and honored. Escorting of media will not be required except where necessary for security and crowd control and/or as deemed necessary by the Manager, Media Relations Office, and/or the Space Shuttle Projects media relations specialist.
- b. Impounded information can be released as specified in the agency Public Affairs Spaceflight Contingency Plan.
- c. General information that would normally be released, or which had previously been released, shall continue to be released in accordance with established public affairs procedures. Public Affairs video or still photography to be impounded shall be copied before delivery. Live TV views that have already been available to the media shall continue to be available via replay or duplication.
- d. If an investigative board is formed, questions from the news media concerning investigative information will be forwarded by telephone or electronically to the public affairs board representative for an answer as called for in the agency Public Affairs Spaceflight Contingency Plan.
- e. The Manager of Media Relations Department and his designees will be provided access to all locations where contingency support activities are being conducted.

6.0 REVIEW

Both the Public Affairs Spaceflight Contingency Plan and the MSFC Implementation Plan will be reviewed prior to each Shuttle mission by specified members of the MSFC Media Relations Department--the Space Shuttle Media Relations specialist, the designated specialist supporting the Space Shuttle launch, the News Chief and the Manager of Media Relations Department or his designee. Additionally, the Center Director; Shuttle Projects
